TRAVIS
JOHNSON

PROJECT MANAGER

Can you help me?

Hello, my name is Travis Johnson and I recently completed a Graduate Certificate in Mental Health through La Trobe University.

Following on from graduation I'm developing the 'Brave Love' project, and I would love your input through a research interview.

Style of Questions

The interview includes 10 carefully considered questions - developed with ministry leaders, volunteers, parent-carers, friends of parents, pastors, and chaplains in mind.

The questions explore your experiences of caring for parent-carers as they support their young person experiencing additional needs in the home.

While acknowledging past experiences, the focus is on the future and how the project's emerging offerings might increase support for parent-carers.

What is Brave Love?

The Brave Love project sees the courage of parents navigating additional needs in family life, and seeks to foster sustained care for them in church communities.

The aim of our research survey is to further sharpen our own learning as we seek to equip those responsible for the care of parent-carers - be they pastors, church leaders, ministry leaders, friends of parent-carers, or parents themselves.

We would love to hear your insights through an interview to better understand your experiences, your understanding of currently avenues of care, and where you see opportunities for greater support.

What happens with your information?

Information collected will be organised into an internal report that can be provided upon request.

Any and all personally identifiable information provided will be excluded from the report.

Personal information will only be used to organise an interview and/or to communicate findings and offerings as a result of evidence collected.

UNABLE TO ATTEND AN INTERVIEW?
